E-TEACHERS' DAY 2016

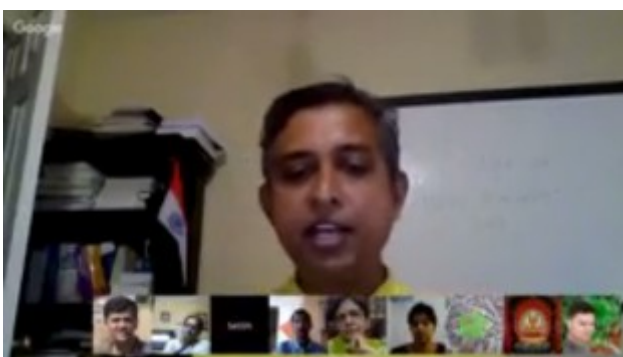

As a mark of respect and to recognize teachers' contribution towards society teachers' day is observed on September 5th every year in India. The birth day of our 2nd president Dr. Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan. We at eVidyaloka too celebrated this day with an e-Teachers' day which was conducted in two sessions the morning session and the night session. The theme for this year was inspire to teach and innovate.

The guest speaker for both the sessions were Mr. Satish Vishwanathan co-founder and a passionate teacher volunteer at eVidyaloka. In his speech Mr Satish talked about teaching being the most noble profession and something which can be picked up at any point of life by passionate people, something which happens at eVidyaloka. He added that even though a class lasts just for an hour there is a lot of learning that happens in that one hour of teaching for a teacher and gave us the quote "dream is not that comes in your sleep it doesn't allow you to sleep." He also elaborated on the responsibilities of a teacher which is to make children leaders of future and to be a role model to them. Accordingly to him the proudest moment for any eVidyaloka teacher would be 20 years down the lane when kids come up and say sir/madam you taught us at eVidyaloka.

The 10 min guest speaker session was followed by cultural programmes by students of Managundi school from Karnataka followed by recognizing the long serving teacher and admin volunteers at eVidyaloka who have completed more than 3 years of service with us.

The programme was concluded by the last Q&A session in which we had active participation from all our participating teachers and there was exchange of ideas and answering of general queries.
